Description

One of John Harvey's paintings of his childhood. John Harvey, Cornish artist, born, in the North of England. John Harvey Paints and draws memories of childhood filled with warmth and love. He changes the dark, grey buildings into places full of happy carefree times, when shopping for the bread or meat for Sunday lunch was the most important thing in his or any child's life - memories all of us can identify with. His harbour views, are memories full of joy and excitement, that of a little boy imagining voyages on the boats.
